Dear Dr. Bensley:

It was more than kind of you to send me a copy of the book on Dr. W. W. Francis.

It is a delightful book, mellow and rich. It is remarkable how the tributes - so many and so varied - flow together to make a harmonious whole. This, in itself, is perhaps the finest tribute to Dr.
Francis. This is a rare volume, which will always have a special place in my library.

With many thanks,

Sincerely yours,

Edgar Andrew Colhard

Dear Dr. Francis,

I was most pleased to receive your copy of "W. W. Francis; Tributes from his Friends", and shall be proud to add this to our local collection. Before I do a write-up for the local paper I shall be grateful if you would send me a few biographical details so that we can be certain that the link-up with our local Francis family is accurate.

I notice that you ask us to take a large grain of salt with the contents but from what I read in the book, this is a typical example of your modesty and I am sure that you must be very proud that a volume of this kind has been published in your name.

With many thanks again for letting us have a copy,

Yours sincerely,

Chief Librarian.

Dear Dr. Francis:

I am still glowing with the delightful memory of last week's visit to the Osler Library, an experience made unforgettable, I should add, by my guide and host. The pleasure was relived on my trip home with the reading of the book of tribute from your devoted admirers and I feel privileged to number myself among those many who have been similarly charmed through the years. My deepest thanks, too, for inscribing the little book in such a lively vein.

With kindest regards, I am most sincerely

Dear Dr. Francis:

I have just received through the mail the beautiful book dedicated to you as tributes from your friends. I don't know that I have ever had the pleasure of reading such a splendid group of letters paying tribute to one of the great men in medicine, particularly one in your chosen field as Librarian, and your contributions to the scholarship of medicine which are known to all of us.

I consider it a rare privilege, indeed, to have been associated with you even in so small a capacity as our infrequent meetings at the Cushing Historical Library meetings, and it is a privilege to have in front of me this beautiful book containing the tributes to one of the greats in medicine.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Most sincerely,
