

Hôtel Vendôme

Paris

CUS417/57.134

Dear Mr. Cushing,

Your letter was forwarded to me but not the books I am sorry to say. I am going to try to get them here - You can imagine how eagerly I am looking forward to reading that biography - just the little that you read me at Jekyll made me realize what a delight it is going to be to all Sir Williams friends + I through the out of all danger when a sudden collapse came - It has been heavily load the heavy yoke that as you can imagine - Thank you again for your letter & for the advance copy of your book - I only wish I had it here.

Yours very sincerely,

Maline Brewster.

May 3^d P.S. Another letter from Luella but has just come. He writes that the Nat. up to the 3.30 Am so glad my letters have been helpful. They were such charming ones! He always said so much in a few words -

You will have heard of the great shock & sorrow we have had in the sudden death of Bob's Mother - Uncle Ned wrote me that he had written you of our having sailed & he probably told you of Mrs.
Brewster's death just a few hours after we had sailed - She had been ill but was

A. M. reading the biography & was immensely interested.
He will surely write a memoir for his life.