My dear Mr. Cushing:-

Though I know you are being deluged with letters I cannot refrain from writing you and thanking you for two wonderful works I have had reading your Oser.

It is superb. You have shown us a most fascinating way the development of a great character. In my work with students I have always held up Sir William as the ideal to be followed but I did not realize in how many ways he had fought for the things that to day are being wrongly thrown into the discard.

His prophecy about the fate of "full time" and the type of man it will attract is absolutely true and the art of medicine which he practised is now sneered out.

You have given me a great treat thank you so much for it.

Without in any way wishing to detract from your two other books I think this work is the greatest contribution you have thus far made to medical literature.

With kind regards
Sincerely yours

Ernest Sachs.
