Dear Doctor Cushing

You do not need any words of commendation from me but I trust I may express my greatest satisfaction and the special recognition your Life of Dylan has received. How you found time in your very busy days to write it has long given me wonder. I realized you lashed not the heart and herein lies the explanation I presume.

It must have seemed strange to your assistants - and the nurses even, to have me make bold to pay my respects to you while you were preparing for an operation, but it was hard for me to forego the opportunity of seeing you even if but a moment. For your goodness in permitting it I am very grateful as I have been also for other things.
- One of the things I cherish most is a word of acknowledgements and getting from Doct. Osler, through Dr. Francis, sent only two days before her death. I had no claim to that attention.

Dr. Kalmann has made friends very easily and I am sure that his presence here will greatly strengthen our school. Our needs both in men and materials are great and we know it. But I think that some of our critics will live to see how sadly they misjudged us, our aims and opportunities.

With warmest regards and kindest appreciations

Ever gratefully yours

W. H. Brown
