Dr. Tyson.

My dear Sir,

I am personally acquainted with Dr. Osler, and I am fully cognisant of his position as a pathologist and a clinical observer. As regards his ability to teach effectively in the lecture room and at the bedside, I have no definite information. Judging, however, by his manner of speaking at a meeting of the New York Pathological Society, I think there cannot be any doubt as to his being a successful oral teacher. I know of no one who could offer better promise of filling the chair of clinical medicine in your institution than Dr. Osler.

Yours very truly,

A. Flint.
