DEAR SIR:

May I record the result of our understanding as follows:

That you will contribute for publication in Volume II of "A SYSTEM OF MODERN MEDICINE" a chapter dealing with

Acute Lobar Pneumonia - and

General Pneumococcus Infection of 125 pages containing approximately 500 pages words, the MS. whereof shall be ready for the printer by June 1st 1905.

That you will read and return proofs promptly, and remuneration therefor shall be calculated at the rate of Four Dollars per printed page, exclusive of illustrations.

That payment of such remuneration shall be made by the publishers, Messrs. Lea Brothers & Company, of Philadelphia, at the date of publication, and that the publishers shall prepare, at their own expense, requisite illustrations from photographs, drawings, engravings and other material to be furnished by you, and they shall pay costs of author's alterations and corrections made in proof up to a limit of fifteen per cent. of the cost of composition, but charges in excess of said fifteen per cent. shall be deducted from the remuneration above mentioned.

Nov. 28 1904

That upon publication you shall receive a complimentary copy of the complete work.

Faithfully yours,

William Allen
