Dear Ogden: -

I was very sorry indeed not to have any reply to my telegram, but I took it for granted that you were not at home. I had intended to leave St. Paul by the morning train and wait over the evening with you. There were many things I wished to talk about with you. I wonder whether you ever think of leaving Milwaukee? I wish to goodness you were here, but you know what a God-forsaken town this is, and a somewhat difficult one to make head-way in in practice.

You must have had a delightful trip abroad.

Very sincerely yours,

Wm. Osler-
