(W.O. to H.A.Lafleur)

Baltimore, March 7th, 1896

Dear L.: -

The Jefferson people were disgusted at the refusal of the position by two good men--Flexner and Dock--so that they thought they had better take an indifferent one, and have appointed Coplin, who was Longstreth's assistant; at least so I see it reported in the papers, and from what I heard the other day in Philadelphia, I know that was their idea. They have been in rather a bad condition financially,

The little doctor is thriving. I hope by the time you see him in the spring he will be able to give you a very good account of himself.

Sincerely yours,

W^m Osler

P.S. Your Review was much appreciated.
