Dear Mrs. Chatard:

The death of your dear husband came as a great shock to me. I only heard of it on my return from England. To few men of this town have I been so attracted. He was so gentle and loveable and always loyal to the highest interests of the profession he loved so well. Please accept for yourself and young son, the student, my heartfelt sympathy, and do tell him to look upon me as a friend to whom he can turn for advice and assistance in his studies.

Sincerely yours,

Wm. Osler.
