Dear Churchman:

I wrote letters at once to Professors Hertle and Strümpell; I thought I asked you to call. They will know who you are now, so I enclose a card to each of them. Let me know when you are in England. It will be a great pleasure to see you here. You will be delighted with Oxford.

(Letter referring to a year's stay in Breslau as voluntary assistant in Garre's clinic. J.W.C.)

Sincerely yours,
