Dear Mr. Phipps:

I am sure you will like the suggestiveness and pleasant style of Crozier's book. How delighted you must be to see the family growing. We sail on Wednesday to be present at my mother's birthday.

It is a shame to bother you about outside matters, but the Hon. C. T. Brassey and a few of us have a scheme afoot for meeting the needs of this old University. I have been assigned the superintendance of the collections for the Medical School Laboratories. We need about £40,000. I am specially interested in a small laboratory and clinical department for the out-patients work at the Radcliffe Infirmary which would cost about £5000. Would you care to help me in this matter? I will have the general circular sent you.

I will send my Harveian Oration in a few days.

With kind remembrances to Mrs. Phipps,

Sincerely yours,

Wm. Osler.
