

Toronto, Ontario.

July 13, 1908.

My dear Osler:

Leathes has given his decision declining, of course, apparently for the present to accept the offer made him, and we have to consider the next step to be taken. Who will be approached next I do not know, and it will take some time. I have been considering a number of names to suggest to the President, but without the fullest information they will not be of much service.