Dearest Gwen:

I am so glad to hear from you, such a nice letter about the family. It is delightful to hear that baby is better. What a saintly Little Auntie it was to save him!

We hope to be out in the autumn. Tommie has just gone off to Winchester in very good spirits; he writes such nice letters, and is evidently very happy. The boys have a special language of their own, some three or four hundred words, which a new boy - or rather man, as the boys are called men at Winchester - has to learn within the first fortnight; he is assigned a senior boy as Pater or instructor, and if at the end of a fortnight the words are not all known the Pater has the privilege of spanking the new boy.

It is delightful to think you are so well; there is no reason why you should not improve steadily.

I enclose you a cheque.

With much love to Little Auntie and the babies

Affectionately yours,

W^m Osler
