

13, Norham Gardens,
Oxford.

Sept. 22nd. 10.

Letter (Typewritten)

Dear Archie,

A man called Gillies of P.E.I. enters the medical school this year; he is the son of an old fellow student of mine at McGill, and he has been here for three years as a Rhodes scholar. He is very well up in his physiology, and probably will be in the same classes with you. Look after him a bit. Keep an eye also on Harry Wright in whom I am greatly interested.

I send you a new edition, out last Christmas, of Cunningham's big textbook of anatomy, which may be useful: it goes through Wesley the forwarder.

I hope you will have a good winter.

Sincerely yours,
Wm. Osler.