Dear Harry T.-

I am very distressed to hear from Boggs that Mary Worthington's hemiplegia is persistent and that she still has fever. I am afraid that means that she has got chronic infective endocarditis. What a tragedy for her and for you all! I was sorry also to hear that Hal had been laid out, but Larry Brown in a letter this week says he is all right again. You must have had an anxious time all the same.

I am very busy with my text-book and have made a good many changes in the infectious diseases, and am trying to patch up the Nervous System a bit; but it is hard work putting the new wine into the old bottle. We have had a very good Christmas. Revere is at home. He has just completed a 5-ft. Atlantic Liner, engines and all, which is to be launched this week.

Love to the family,

Ever yours,

(Signed)
