

(Letter to Adam H. Wright, M.D.)
(typewritten)

10th June, 1912.

From the Regius Professor of Medicine, Oxford.

Dear Wright, (~~Re~~ Watson)

I have not anyone in mind at present. Of course it would be a splendid berth for some fellow - particularly if it carried with it the hospital appointment, as I suppose it does. Is there not some capable Canadian fellow who has been trained with Edgar or Williams who might go for a time as associate? It would not be a bad thing to go outside for a man. Haultain is coming here next week to examine. I will ask him quietly, without mentioning names or places.

I hope to see you all in September. Love to the family.

Sincerely yours,

WM OSLER
