

From the Regius Professor of Medicine, Oxford.

28, September, 1914.

Dear Garrison,

I enclose you a "Girdle" book and photographs, which were sent to me last year from Paris, but it is not the sort of literature I keep in my library, and I send it on the chance that you have not got it at Washington. The photographs, I should say, are faked.

When does the new edition of your History come out? I have got a few typographical corrections, which, I dare-say, you have already seen.

All is going well here. We are hopeful, and trying to make soldiers out of fairly good material. We have about 400 wounded in the big Examination Schools. The extraordinary thing is the trifling character of the bullet wounds.

We shall be looking for your Billings Biography before long.

Greetings to the S.G.

Sincerely yours,

Wm. Osler.

+ Ceinture de Chasteté