Dear J. William,

I shall be very glad indeed to see your new book, which, I am sure, will have a good sale here. I will write to one or two of the journals about suitable reviews.

Let us know when you are coming, and make this place your headquarters while in England.

As I told you, I think, Revere is joining the McGill unit, which comes over the end of this month - 358 in all, a staff for a 1,000 bed hospital. He will be Colonel Birkett's orderly officer. At present he is at Clevedon at the new hospital learning his duties. He is very happy and is looking remarkably well.

I have just spent a week at the American Hospital, Paignton, where they had a large influx of new cases.

Love to Mrs. White.

Ever yours,
