

From the Regius Professor of Medicine, Oxford. To Sir John MacAlister.

Letter Script.

9th. 1917

Dear MacAlister,

That will be splendid! How are his arteries? I know very little about Cumston, who was not a professor at Harvard, and I never saw any statement about a "chair" at Geneva. He may have been made a Docent. My Minerva '12 to 13 gives no clue. Look up the last one. He has a keen interest in the history of medicine and has written ~~a~~ very good papers. It will make a great foundation but do not divert a cent to Proceedings. Books, MSS and Historical publications. I would like to write to him send address.

No word from Page. You may as well cable Ranney?, The Library Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. Are you sure you have the franks. He arranged for a reply paid Better put our names to it.

Yours,
W.O.
