26th April 1920.

Dear Sir,

In response to your note in the British Medical Journal of 20th April re, Biography of Sir William Osler. I enclose a card which Sir William Osler sent me whilst I was serving as a Captain in the R.A.M.C. At that time I was anxious to lend a helping hand towards dealing with the serious problem of venereal disease, and consequently delivered many lectures to the men in our armies. These lectures were printed in pamphlet form, and, knowing how deeply Sir William Osler was interested in this work, and being anxious to have his opinion, a copy was sent to him from The Lord Derby, War Hospital, Where I was stationed at the time. His generous approval, embodied in the two lines he wrote, encouraged me to fight on with a difficult task. I send the card on to you as you say "copies of all letters no matter how brief are requested" Kindly return it to me.

Yours faithfully
