

LETTERS to Prof. Edward G. Browne, Firwood, Cambridge.1919.

Dear Browne,

June 14.

Yes, I shall be at home on Sunday. ^{Subscribed Copy} Saturday I have to preside at a Meeting in London in the morning, and attend one here in the afternoon and dine with the Electro-therapeutics in the eve. Please lunch with us on Sunday and dine with me at Ch. Ch. in the eve. Can I get out anything for you at Bodley?

Sincerely yours,

Where are you staying in Oxford? I wish I could put you up but our servants begin their holidays on Saturday.
