I duly received your letter letter & will thank you to ~~return~~

I had a letter from you a short was written under circumstances very unfavorable to perfection

I should modify it considerably.
Thorp had a letter from Mr condemning practice, but he writes a letter in his weekly to a New York paper (I forget which it is) in one of the parochial dispensaries - He was dismissed by the Apothecary on the ground of drunkenness - He was also sent away on the same ground from the Chelsea Workhouse, is he not?

The justice of the charge he denies in respect to the former instance & for the latter he alleges some extenuating circumstances - I shall state all I know - I have no personal knowledge of him - As a needy man who has by seen better days, I shall be glad if you feel disposed in giving him any employment.

Dear Sir

In consequence of your absence this afternoon, it was determined to postpone the question respecting the district - At that time the majority of those present were, I presume, opposed to your plan - In the discussion of the question on Sunday I am sure there was no dissimetry intended to you and you are certainly wrong as to its being an objection instead of a supporting one - The Aetio wrote upon our proceedings at the time that they were in-fined back for reconsideration - I consented to the proposition because it was then after our & any decision at that time would have been very hastily - Yours very truly
