Dear Sir

Mr Kipling does not remember when
Mrs Hawksbee was written but believes it was in an Illustrated London
News some years ago
as a Christmas story.

Mr Kipling regrets
he has no more accurate information to give but

dear dear Sir

Need I say how very much I appreciate your kindly little gift which arrived safely today? The book is a treasure and you may be sure I shall value it so much I know of no other copy outside of big libraries and, as you suggest, it shall accompany the Montaigne on my shelves. Heaven send that fifty years from today people will be keen about first editions of my little books!
With renewed thanks believe me

My dear Mrs Meredith

Your note of the 6th came to me here.

I should very much prefer that you did not dedicate the music of your setting of Recessional as you propose

I wrote Recessional twelve years ago for all kinds and classes of people and by undesired good fortune it came about that all kinds and classes of people have taken and used it.

I should not now care for anything connected with it to be dedicated to any particular person.

I am sure you will understand this point of view

Sincerely yours
Rudyard Kipling

Dear Mrs Meredith,

I am in receipt of your letter of the 22nd with enclosures. I am delighted that your setting of the 'Recessional' has been so very successful. I find that my engagements do not permit me to be in London at the date your music is being performed, and I beg that you will not postpone the publication of this music, if you desire to publish it, until I have heard it, as I am not in the least a musician, and I am sure that my opinion would be of no value to you in the matter.

I trust that the performance in the Queen's Hall will be very successful.

yours sincerely,

Rudyard Kipling

The President
the Gill University

Dear Sir:

It would be a great satisfaction to me if your University, which conferred on me an honorary D. C. L. would accept from me a board volume of my M. S. and would not object to the condition that the gift is not to be announced till my death, and that the M. S. is not to be used for purposes of collation. Should your University see its way to accept my suggestion, would you let me know what you would consider the safest means of conveying the volume to you?

Very sincerely yours
Rudyard Kipling

My dear Principal,

I have just received your letter of April 22nd with its enclosure dated September 27 of last year.

If I hadn't done, and did not now and again, do much the same thing myself (It's the habit of beginning a letter and putting it under a mass of other papers that makes the mischief!) I should, of course, be pained, shocked, grieved and horrified. But, as it is, I can't throw stones, and I shall be very glad to meet Dr. Lomer when he is over here, and give him the bound volume of Mss. for McGill.

With every good wish,

Most sincerely yours,

Rudyard Kipling.

Dear Mr Lomer,

I have your letter of June 24th, and I am hoping, as Sir Arthur Currie suggested, that you will come to see me here on the 4th July, which is a Monday, and I will have the book of manuscript ready for you then. If you leave Victoria at 11.18 for Heathfield, you will arrive there at 12.52 and I will send my motor to fetch you; you can return on a train leaving here at 4.12 and arriving in London at 6.14. I hope this will be convenient for you, as it is the only day that I have during the days that you say you are going to be in London, unless you would care to motor down on Sunday afternoon.

Unfortunately I am engaged for lunch that day, but I should be free about four o'clock. Would you very kindly send me a wire to tell me your decision in this matter. Kipling, Burwash, is sufficient address.

I am very much looking forward to seeing you, and I hope that one of the days given will fit in with your arrangements.

Sincerely yours,

Rudyard Kipling

Dear Miss Sturtevant.

The glorio flowers

that you sent for Mrs Kipling are a very great joy to her. She doesn't see the like of them in England - even in hot houses. and
thanks you a many times.
I am glad to say that she seems to be making fair progress after her relapse and one becomes hopeful.

Very sincerely yours

Dear Mr. Lomer

Many thanks for the peonies which have delighted Mrs. Kipling. I have been reduced during my stay here & I should have done myself the honour of writing to McGill.
