

The Liberator of the Officers of the Medical Dept. is certainly deplorable.

It is proposed that this ^{Woolwich} General Regulation be referred ^{to the} to the Duke of the Peduncles?

My Lord,

I have the honor to state, for the information of the Master General of the Ordnance, that First Assistant Surgeons Mr. Donald, and Steward, of this Department, came to me a few days ago, on behalf of themselves and the Medical Officers of their class; and having delivered to me a Memorial signed by the First Assistant Surgeons on duty in England, representing their Services, and their present state with regard to promotion, they earnestly requested I would submit it to the perusal of the Duke of Wellington. - As the Senior of these Gentlemen, has been eighteen years in the Service, and as they have every claim upon me that strict attention to duty, the acquirement of professional knowledge, and exemplary conduct in every other respect, can create; I feel it incumbent on me to transmit it to your Lordship, for such consideration as His Grace may be pleased to bestow upon it.

The

The unfortunate predicament in which the Assistant Surgeons of this Establishment were inadvertently placed many years ago, having been a subject of representation since the year 1810; and being sufficiently explained by the Memorialists, I shall not take the liberty of repeating the facts they have detailed; but shall only beg leave to state, in expressing an anxious wish for the success of the Memorial so far as they are concerned, that any relief His Grace might deem feasible, and might condescend to afford to these meritorious persons, could not be extended to Individuals more worthy of it, both from the length and nature of their Services, and the high character they have ever sustained. —

One O'Clock.

Sir,

I have this moment been Honored with your two Notes of Yesterday.

I would beg leave to suggest the following, as the most effectual Mode of affording a due degree of Relief to the Assistant Surgeons.

1st To take the Surgeon of the Cadet Company off the Effective Establishment, and to grant him a liberal Retirement, perhaps from ten to twelve shillings a day. - I have reason to believe that Mr. Fitzpatrick would be glad to accept such terms, as he has suffered during the last two Years, from an affection of his Chest, and he now finds the evening duties prejudicial to him. - 2nd - In the event of any augmentation of the present Establishments of the Royal Artillery, and Royal Engineers, to grant two Surgeons to the Effective Establishment. - 3rd - On the occurrence of every subsequent vacancy, by the death, or Resignation of a Medical Officer at the time on full pay, to grant a step of promotion to the First, and Second Ass^t Surgeons.

The Honorable
The Clerk of the Ordnance.

Should the above be adopted, the three oldest of the First Assistant Surgeons would be promoted immediately, without the least infringement of any principle of the Service; for the first would be allowed for the retirement of Doctor Irwin, formerly Surgeon General, on the 1st of February 1822; - the second, for the retirement of Doctor Jameson, late Surgeon General, on the 16th of November last; and the third for the retirement of Surgeon Fitzpatrick.

Having now had nearly three years' experience of the means the Department affords for the performance of the Medical duties of the Ordnance, I can safely declare that an addition of two Medical Officers to the present number, would be of essential advantage to the service. -

As you may probably require further information on this subject, I shall take the liberty of attending at the Office of Ordnance tomorrow, at two O'Clock, to give any additional explanation you may desire to obtain. -

I have the honor to be

P. S.

P. S. - As no Army Surgeon has a Right to retire on fifteen shillings a day, until he has served thirty years on full pay, (which is ^{the} 18/10^d.) it would be extremely inconvenient to establish a precedent of such extensive application, as that of granting full pay to any Regimental Surgeon. - The mode I have taken the liberty to suggest, of creating one vacancy by the retirement of Surgeon Fitzpatrick, and granting two Surgeons by augmentation, is quite free from every such objection. - to the K. W. M. M.

L. M. Webb

- Surgeon has a right to retire after 20 years service of full pay in good health on 7th a day.
 - bad health 10th after 30 years service on 15th a day -

Sworn of the temporary ret. when one than for pay

To allow the whole of the Surgeons left on temp. for pay were allowed to retire on permanent for pay it wd. be a gr. saving both in exp. & office. for this reason they have served so long on full pay without kind of pay on being brought back w. be entitled to continue in clearing the ^{retirement} according to the K. Rec^d. 15th

The Storekeeper solicits the promotion of six Labourers to the 2nd Class of Foremen, in consequence of the increased number of Labourers now employed, and as a reward for skill, in the details of the examination of Stores.

Sir The great increase in the supplies of Stores and general business at this Depot, having rendered a large addition to the number of Labourers necessary

In 1822 -	52 Men	1 Woman
1825 -	107	13

I beg leave to represent the advantages of an addition also to the Class of Foremen; and to state that the following individuals have rendered themselves particularly useful in the details of examination of Stores, they have acquired a skill which ought fairly to rank them with Artificers, and it would be necessary to instruct others in the event of their quitting the Service, now that Trade has improved, which would require much time and care. I therefore respectfully solicit the advance of

The Honorable
Principal Storekeeper.

of these Men from Labours of the first Class, to be Foremen of the second or lowest Class, which will give them 22/- instead of 17/- per Week. &c. &c.

August Goddard 13 years in the Service a Shoemaker by Trade, employed upon the examination of Shoes and Leather Articles.

Thomas Griffiths 13 years in the Service a Smith, employed in the examination of Iron Bedsteads and other Iron Articles.

James Skinner 16 years in the Service very useful in the examination of returned Stoves, and other Articles.

George Goddard 12 years in the Service employed in the examination of Sheets, Shirts, and various other Articles.

James Crook 9 years in the Service employed in the examination of Great Coats, and Clothing.

John Griffiths 11 years in the Service employed in the examination measuring & of Wollen Cloth and other Fine Goods.

In offering the above subject to the notice of the Honorable Board

Board, I am induced to state from practical observation and long experience, the great advantage that accrues to the service in the employment of a large body of Men, by having them in Clashes, and directed in their labor by Working Foremen who have risen by their own good Conduct and usefulness from common Labourers, and the stimulus that is thereby given to the latter Class by the hope of similar reward for execution; and further that the increase of expense will not amount to £110 Annuum -

My dear Friend

I have received together with Yr. Letter this morning, a communication from Lambton, I think he rather seems to doubt Gupels having promised me to descent from the Arch, — I have therefore thought it best to send Lambton in confidence Gupels Letter to me declaratory of his descent, which I consider an official communication on the Subject, as it was made spontaneously, & not made or considered private in any shape, I have at the same time begged Lambton to deliver Gupels Letter when read to you, & as it is an important Document, pray keep it carefully, so as you can lay your hands on it, without its being lost in the vortex of your Ordnance Ammunition — It is no doubt our Policy to keep Rupert quiet & in good humor, & yet he really seems so inconsistent, & such a wrenchcock, it is hard to know how to act with him, & it is quite unphilosophic ever to be sure of him. — I think his Letter to me (if shown up on the Committee) would make him look very foolish, (certainly when I received it. It set me quite at ease, & killed all my objections.

How far as an Instrument it might be

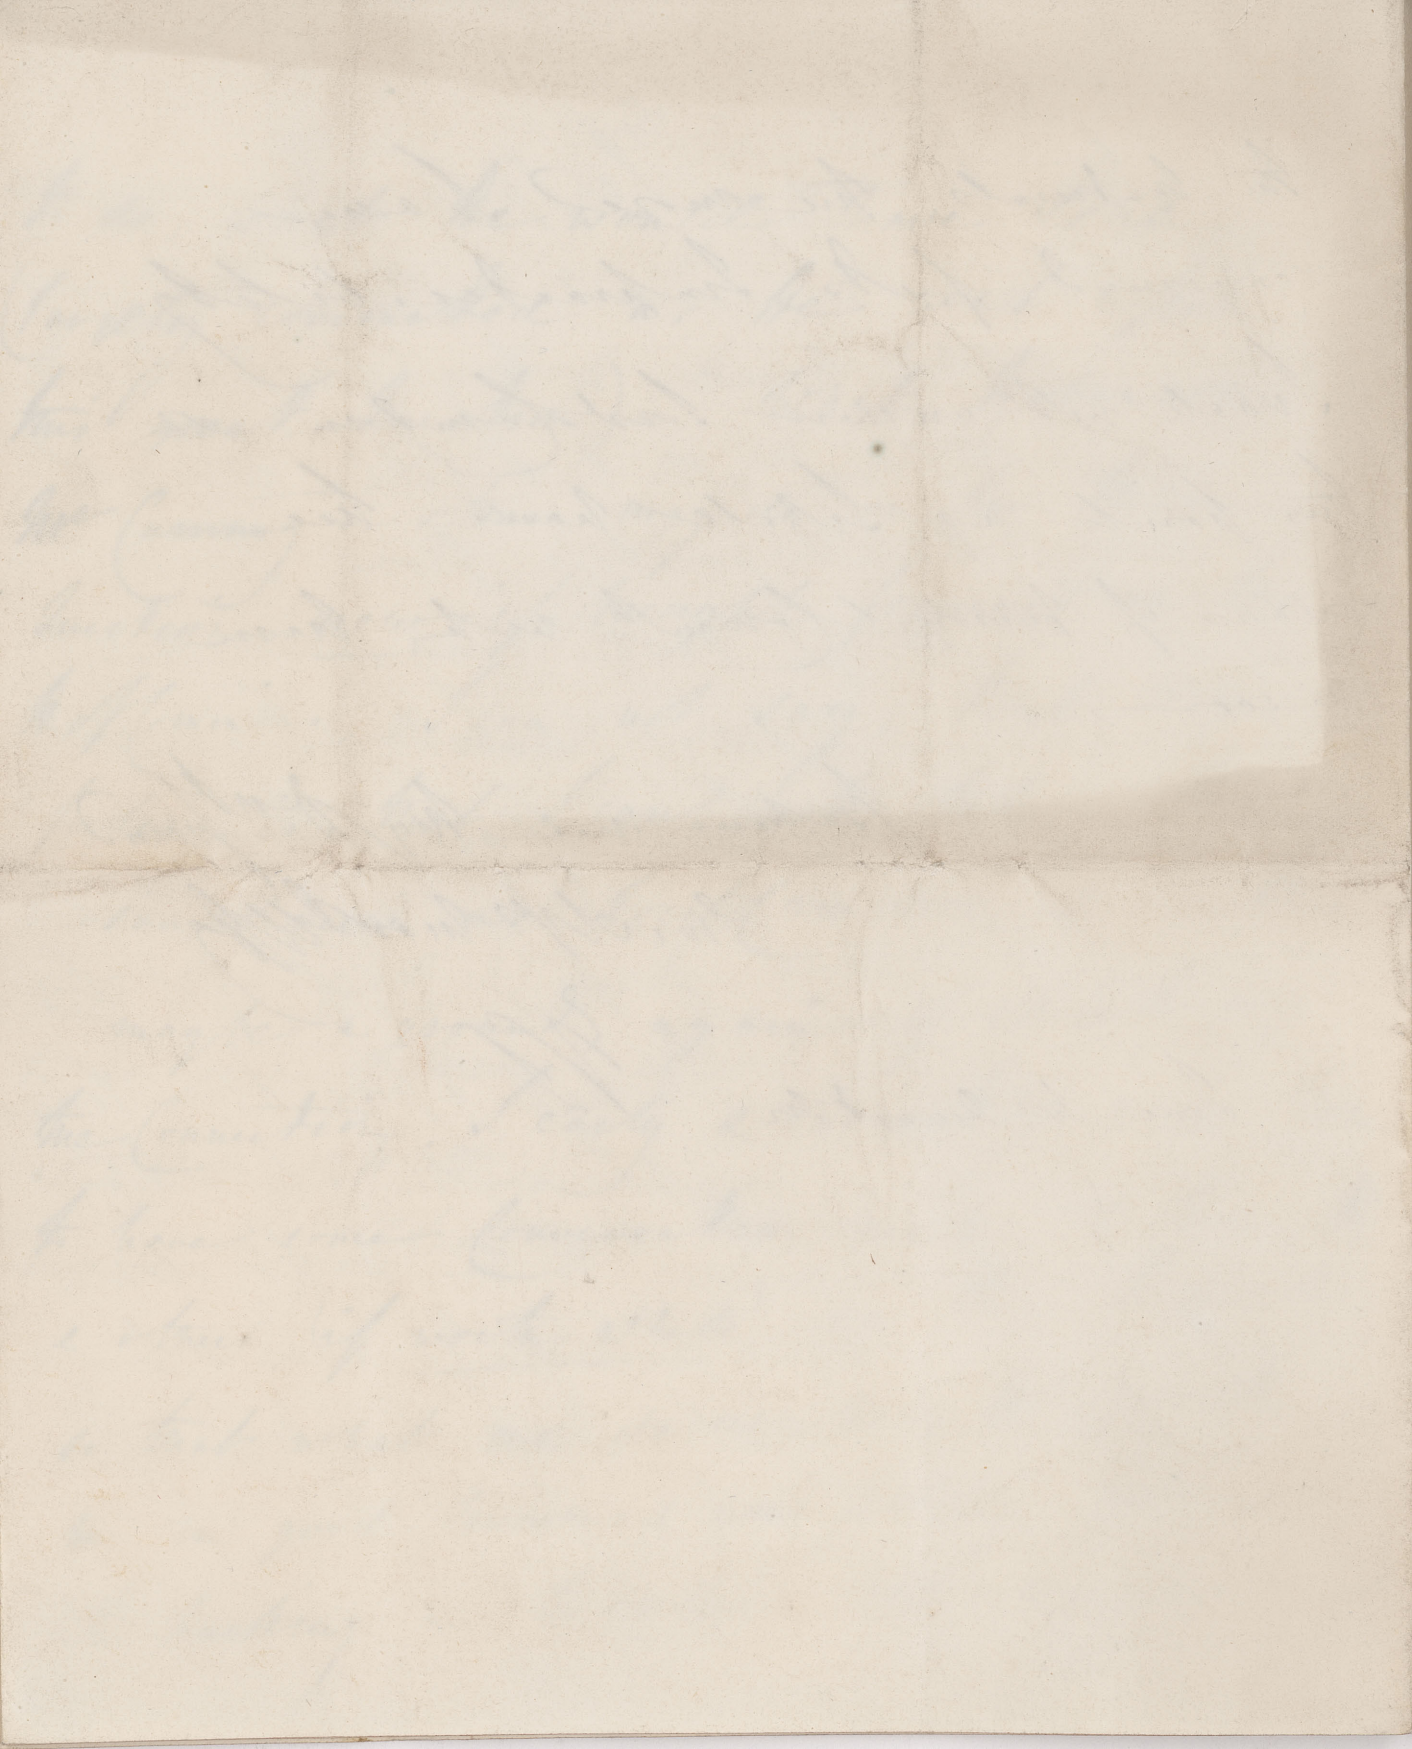

& by this annoyance, I suppose (considerable things I should be guided - Now my good Friend with my name, & my property in Ireland, I can not but feel myself in a very different position from Lord Carleton, & although Peel may have made him an accommodating Consul, this will never do for me, - If ever there was a time for looking this Question in the face, it is when we are at Peace with all the World, & when the Catholic Association have been very foolish & ought with all their Associations Societies to be kept down by Law, still their proceedings can not alter the votes, on the Main Question If those votes were honest; - I think this would have been my Brother's feeling, and I ought To do, what he would have done, (largely committed as he was upon this great Question) - What Governor Wes. Canning or others may do on the main Question now if brought forward in the House, I can not say, but my feeling is that I can not take the same view as Southamden, & as this maybe a ground, again of splashing the Connection. I early & earnestly urge you to have some conversation with R. Swack & others, (if worth while), on the Subject so that what we do reciprocally must be in good humor & good feeling, for as to talking in together the more free of the materials, the more I am convinced of its Impracticability I shall not answer Lord Camden on this point as I shall have true means of personal communication so soon

Believe me my Dear friend Everly^r Yours
W. Pitt

Love to Deane Mr. W. Pitt used yet to make Napier see again, I can not say, & I feel powerfully that you can not bear him & must be patient - I hope early in March will be in time for every effort I could make, when on the spot near Napier, for the present, (as I think I told you in my last) - I have wished to put an end to our agreement on the Barbor, made under the fact of his opposing the Railway - This on the outset is a pretty strong Thump - we shall see what it produces?

After all my Dear Friend, if we are beat on the Railway - we shall not have fought hard for nothing, for the sake of this Year is preferable no doubt. to that of the last, & if it is the wisdom of the Legislature to force these measures by Money Speculators & City Jobbers, ... Luc Fairé — I will write to Westbrook my best thanks & a filip to Dunfanothy & J. G. writes to Jy & Melgrave — I have a meeting here tomorrow of Quaker Members Wright, Ord, etc & we will read up a Squad & do what we can & I will write the result.

I send you a note, received this morning from, Considerable, The purpose of it is to announce to me that if the Catholic Question is brought forward this Session, we will vote against it.

Dear Mr Honey

My absence from London, & an Indisposition to trouble any one upon Matters, personal to myself & especially the Duke of Wellington, have prevented me from taking any measures, of the Description, upon which I am concerned, when you last called upon me.

The Wish that the Government must have that this Session of Parliament should close at an early Period ^{Parliament} & other Circumstances, induces me to Think it very improbable, that any measures relative to the Exchequer will be introduced unless it was likely that they should, I see no immediate advantage in bringing the subject ^{up} ~~up~~ before the Public. It appears to me I therefore suggest it, & I think you will have no objection to do it, that it would be very natural, ^{even without my requesting you to do so} that you should wish to know the probable course of the Parliamentary Business & I ~~therefore~~ or an enquiry might be made of a message ^{to} the Government had any intention of introducing any change in the Management of the ^{Public} Offices I of you should wish to have any reason to give to the Duke, for your asking that particular question. I have not the least objection to your saying I had wished you to do so, as you believed of the ^{the intention} and I had something to say to him on the subject I go out of town to morrow

I hope Lady Camden will be able to return to London at the end of the Week shall recite, I shall be in Town again about Thursday

Yours most sincerely
I truly an Order of the House of Commons, calling for "An Account of the Amount paid from the Commissariat this Country for the supply of the Slaves at the General Service, and consequently it will be impossible to furnish any Account of the Money paid for

My Lord,

The business of my Office has been so much on the increase for some time past, that my Military Secretary has with great difficulty been able to get through it. Indeed the Correspondence has of late been quite equal in quantity to that of any Period of the War, requiring the same continued attention. His personal Communications have greatly exceeded those during War, and have gradually become more frequent and more troublesome, producing interruptions which have obliged him to devote many hours of every Evening and every Sunday throughout the year to the concerns of Correspondence thereby

Under these circumstances, I do not think that Your Lordship will consider me unreasonable if I apply for an Assistant such as my late Military Secretary had before the reduction in the Establishment of my Office in 1817. - one who could occasionally relieve Sir Herbert Taylor from the personal intercourse and other parts of his duty which, without such aid, he must continue to take upon himself Day after Day -

The Salary received by the Officer who held the situation (Lt. Col. Mr. Shawe) was £600 per Ann., and I trust that Your Lordship will have no difficulty in procuring the sanction of the Lords Commissioners of H. M.

My dear Uncle

Welcome back to old England - her cloudy morning sky, with all her damp & sullen humours, allows a man to enjoy more days exercise & air & liberty of limb, than her sunnier gayer neighbours - & as for Men & Women, give me the dull honesty of our English manners, to the amiable deceit of french society - You may have been bewitched with the fascinations of Dieppe - but I do not believe it - for altho' you like to look on the gay side of life, & are susceptible to all the infirmities of your nature, yet you are too discriminating in your judgement not to see through the flimsy veil ^{with} which selfishness & interest attempt to cover their maneuvers in such a congregated herd of Shuipers as at Diappe - With a touch to moralizing - may your last journey give a relish for the most delightful Shades of Sandridge, & the duller but more sincere intercourse of those who love you! -

I wish to announce to Richard yesterday his restoration to full Pay as a Captain of Horse Art. - two Horses & two Soldiers Servants with his moderate habits makes him as independent as any Noble of the Land - so long as he likes the Saddle & the Helmet - how busy in Peace

I have no news: Lord Camden will express his own happiness at one of the best events in life, wanting to consummate his the marriage of his Daughter - The Son in Law will make a chiefly careful honorable husband, the only defect being in a sort of hereditary predilection for purchasing Land - The Father has since a marriage late in life actually converted by his annual Savings an Estate on his of 5000 £ a Y. in an Estate of for simple purposes of 10,000 £ a Y. The Son will double it - in every other respect an honest fellow.

I met the Chancellor at Lord Camden's a fortnight ago - He did not know who I was & as I sat next him at dinner & tried to humour his talkative ways, he after a very heavy meal of tough beans & ham, & a quantity of Cherries after it with the larger half of a bottle of Port at 76, engaged with much ability & to to the general satisfaction the whole of the conversation - The state of the law in the present day, the tricks of practice in the principal Courts, & the difference between the present day & 50 years ago were fertile & interesting topics from one so able to handle this subject with deftness - This led him into a few anecdotes personally regarding himself - He said that his career had been one of accident - That he had for several years gone circuit at an annual trip tho' the business & living were managed with an economy unknown in the present day - & as a proof after 8 years attendance of his little practice, he stated that he promised in resolution to his Wife to give her for Pin-money, the whole of his Profits punctually recorded for one year, & at the end of the year he paid her with due voluntarily 9th 6^d out of a 10. 6 for having given the 1th to the Court prior - These it was determined that he should give up the share of his H^{er} at Newcastle & try his fortune for another year - of course Briefs & Fees showed upon him & in a few years he was made Attorney General. When he had finished his story, as Lord Camden did not point out my relationship to his Brother General in so important an era of his life I did, by telling ^{him} I was proud any relation of mine should be connected with him in an anecdote of his life by which the Country had proposed so eminent a Chancellor. He took my hand held it & entered into a panegyric of S. H. great talents & good qualities, & after Coffee came up to me, warmly shook me by the hand & said he was most happy to have made the acquaintance of the nephew of so old a friend - I was forced to conclude - the Post mails, were 4! H. H.

It was a pleasure to receive your letter of the 10th inst. & to hear from you again. I am glad to hear that you are well & hope you will continue to be so. I have not much news to write at present. We have been here some Days.

Dancing is the order of the Day & there is to be a week's Festivities, afterwards we have the same at W. St., Ormeau, & Dunborough. So we shall carry on the great fool about his wife - It is strange to see a sensible Man act so unaccountably He is passionately fond of her but he is a Tyrant against her will, & permits her only to walk with me, as if I were Young ones were quite safe in the Old past, there was a slight hope that the Luck we had invigorated His Lordship Paternal - But alas! smoking Days also. that the true policy of Mr^c Donnell 2 My a. seems pretty much what I have described to you - I have suggested under this view, that Donnell's having opened his Estate & registering all the Towns of Belfast, will make at a future Day his Interest invincible for the Seat, and that Mr^c Donnell must be beaten, & that I considered it most probable for him (Mr^c Donnell) to strengthen himself as much as possible by this family Interest, which might be made very great - Mr^c Donnell is a pains taking steady industrious fellow & from constant residence might be of great service to Mr^c A. or the reverse Mr^c Donnell's standing himself is gone out of the Question now Donnell's Commanding Power have taken the field, but Mr^c rests with Mr^c Donnell to determine whether he will, or not, make it worth Mr^c Donnell's while to hook himself on to the agreeable to me than to accomplish this result, & that I thought if the God? knew it was an object of great importance to Ann as well as to me, that perhaps ^(McDonnell) he might be returned for one of the God? seats, - In short. McDonnell's interest can be bought for a seat, - Have we the means of getting one? in conjunction with Lord D. or could we buy one in conjunction with him, (McDonnell not to vote on the Catholic Question) or in fact. Can you see any mode of managing this object, - If Lord D. was in Town, or if you could find out through the Key a way of communicating

You may see how the Lord lies & how we may bring this point to bear in the most advantageous manner for our general political interests — Think, if the Parliament had the Freedom of Age, that in the mode I am playing the game, we shall have no contest, either. There will be much Cry, bother, and annoyance, I think however applicable at the difficulties as much as I can during my stay here, — I will write to you about a reference relative to Iveson's account with me, I shall be very much obliged to you to be my referee, I thought their charges monstrous, & their conduct unjustifiable but rather than go to Law, I had much rather settle it by reference —

I should think the Duke would not like the proposal of Mr. P. to Lord W. Arms, & how with dropping through Lord Arms's this proposal & a "notion" — I doubt if it will add to L. W.'s Tenure here, — I do not doubt

To be in his power - have no account from God's name he left Peterborough I understand I had says he was quite well. - God bless you, - I must conclude Everly. Most Affect. Y L

Entrance. In - & abhors - Ours are well, with him, I think it would be a very desirable point to hang ourselves on to Berkeford as far as possible. We saw in our Railway &c. the use of it - I admit the Catholic Question is our stumbling block, but so long as this Question is not decided by the formation of ~~our~~ Government exclusively on its merits, so long might we act in complete Union - I confess.

I feel always an awkwardness about McDonnell, inasmuch as both Lyell & he were decidedly my friends at the Marriage, the Differences with Lyell have been the cause of annoyance, & it is quite natural to suppose McDonnell is playing his own game for the future, but yet I have no positive proof of this, further than Lyell's refusal to receive her Estate

I feel that Her Husband is a natural Source for our protection, more especially as by providing for him, It would give one the wielding of a very powerful Interest in this County - I suppose His & His Circumstances are much retreaded by Sir John Vane, as they talk of taking a house, settling, & going every year to London, Hence the wish of getting into Parliament becomes more urgent, & if the Man could be got in, I think he would be useful, - I know not how my Family may be between this & then, must with depend on what Buddle may make of some Coal for sale. But if I could pay for a Seat - (pro annuo) I should like much to secure it for M^{rs} Donnelly if it could be got in no other way, - Have given you thus the outline of my correspondence with Lord A. & my views, & think with laughing I have have marked the future, & the expectation is echoed which is amply manifested by the Black Grows of the War, & the low spirits & downcast Looks of La Penne

He is a strange Mystery, & proceeds in a manner to me quite unaccountable & if he had a tail more of the Devil (which however seems approaching) think he would see his various jobs w^o to be But enough of this - I want now to talk to you about Goulbais here

Ld. Bedford has written to me urging my support for Antism, as Lord Doughty stands Belfast against Ld. Bedford & one of course Lord A. looks to my influence here as revivifying by Antism's support or thus. He seems to infer, that John's support in Down

I should manage this Estate for him to support McNagatain, who is to stand vice Guomonte, who votes a Contest a D-d Bone - Lt. Deatford has chosen wrong, as McNagatain is despised & odious to the Co. (any Legimous would have been better)

The Donagalls Interest will be very commanding in another Election, I doubt however if they could do much harm this Summer - They hold out to McDonnell, that if he will support, & that Belfast is returned, they will nominate McDonnell for the seat in Belfast. Among no one in their own family to sit -

Now Lady Antrim's & McDonnell's object is for him to be in Parliament, & see they are leaning to close their compact with Donagalls

I have thought it right to state candidly to Lord Deatford not only that I have no influence with My Antrim, from several causes too long for detail to him, but

My Dr Friend

I confide to you the Dispatches I send from Buddle - I can not reconcile myself to the sacrifice of so great a property, altho agreed by myself, if it can be avoided - It appears to me Buddle's second proposition in his Letter might be accomplished, should I had 15 or 16000 £ and that if went to redeem the Lease, I from the G. S., the Lease would then be ample security for the borrow I shoud be might get 8 or 9000 £ to pay off the Bills of Oldenhouse House. &c. which besiege me, - I am so well conversant in Money Transactions in London I know not where to apply either for such an object is this, or to raise Money by Annuity which certainly is disadvantageous, however I really think either is more incumbent on me than to sell such a property as both Mr. Brough & Mr. Moore Pray consider this for me & give me your Ideas - I know not if Franklin would be disposed to a speculation nor do I like to ask him after what he has done, but thank God Mr. Brough with give me ample means to pay.

I write on much haste & advise to save the post -

preserve my letters carefully - Yours truly C. S. Johnson

Dear Sir

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your Letter of the 17th August last, marked "Private" - and to the latter part which refers to the recruiting on this Coast, I am sorry to be obliged to observe, that it goes on but very slowly, and as I have now visited the whole of our Settlements, and much of the Coast generally, and have taken some pains to make myself acquainted with the habits and dispositions of the People, I have reason to apprehend that much Difficulty will attend the plan of keeping up, by voluntary enlistment, these Regiments, there

Lieut General

Sir H. Taylor

is the

is the greatest aversion throughout the Coast to their becoming Soldiers, and excepting a few Boys, and idle, liberated Slaves at this place, and a few Natives at Cape Coast, there is not a Recruit to be got on the Coast - I am using every possible Exertion to get some for the African Corps before the next rains, considering it indispensible, but I much fear that I will have but poor success - Men will enlist at Cape Coast for local Service there, but they will not leave the place, the only way to get Men which I can see, is by selecting for temporary Service, say 7 Years, serviceable Men from the captured Slave Ships, whether His Majesty's Ministers would would consent to such a measure, I do not know. -

I have to -

Major General
