Dearest Edward

This is indeed a maddening world, you are never allowed to enjoy anything quite to the full - I was at dance last night, and one the night before, and I could not help thinking all the time how much much nicer it would have been if you had been there -

The wolsons dance on Thursday was just great - but I think the Clays last nice was almost nicer, it was at the Windsor and such lovely places to sit out I will give you a little sketch.

drawing rooms.

The retunda was perfectly great.

Such comfy sofas - one dance

I sat out - and myself + my partner.

were the only two people there - I'm afraid I thought more of you at that present moment than I did of my partner. but don't let the cat out of the bag - then you could loop the loop right around the hotel via the corridors it took over 5 minutes to loop it - I never felt so popular in my life - I had three offers for supper and of course the nasty one came

- first -
1. Trevor Penrice (an idiot with brains)
 2. Charlie Slater
 - 3 Blair Russel very nice.

I could nearly have filled my programme twice I think - well I'm afraid you will think me growing very conceited, but I'm not, I'm just the same as ever -

Edward you were a dear &

Send me that perfect peach of a little book - It is a little gem & the most chased thing I've seen for a long time. I had read it before, but not for a long time, and so I have read it again.

I find it beautifully written. I don't quite see how "The other wise man" never found the King of the Jews on earth. Because he was looking for him so constantly, you certainly would have thought that he would have found him before the crucifixion - It is quite pathetic in a way - don't you think? -

Mother gave me a beautiful book of Burns' poems yesterday, so you see my bookshelves are gradually getting filled with the master pieces of English literature ahem! -

I'm glad that you glad that I may go to England. only if I do I simply must see you before I leave I could not exist through a whole summer as well as a winter without seeing the most important person in the world - but this is 'casting in the air' - I must now return to earth with a bump -

If any one in the world should ever see my letters (except yourself) I should have a perfect fit - I really think you ought to burn them, especially the foolish ones, it is very bad of you to say that you like them best. (at your old tricks, leaving me again) -

I think it was lovely your being 25 !!! - how you must have aged poor dear! - you might have sent me a ticket for your piano recital -

I hope for your sake that it is warmer
