Dearest Edward.

I did not write yesterday, not again today at least not in time to catch the mail - I am sorry, as probably you have been looking forward to hear from me - You do not know how happy I am to hear from you, you have been a perfect darling about writing I hope you will continue being so. A day seems much longer when I get no letter.

I did nothing special yesterday, but people seemed to come in continually and, oh! yes I had dinner with the Sleets. I seemed to be in a whirl of conversation all day and my loque seemed to thick to turn for an hour or so after I got to bed!

Today, I did a large ϵ in fant washing, washed my hair, jewelry, cleaned my shoes - and then did a lot of ^{ironing} handkerchiefs, baby clothes, collars etc.

This afternoon I called on the people in G. M. house. Mrs. Coler & Mrs. France they both were very nice indeed - exceedingly flossy people - They have completely changed the look of the house, by new fashioned chintzes table covers etc etc. But it looked quite charming - I am to play tennis with them some day. They are quite gomp, somewhere between 30 & 35. I think that you would get on well with them.

Did you get an upper berth for Theresa for Friday night -

She is to be at the magazine stand just inside the door leading to the main platform, at 8 o'clock -

I told her that Con or Lynn would meet her there and put her on the train. Con said he would do this, before he left here. If you have not got the berth yet, you better be quick, for the week end trains are very

Crowded.

I am so glad that you went to Uncle Charles for the week end, it must have been very nice I'm sure.

It is rather stupid that you have to be in town & spending money -

And think how charmed I would be in the winter, if you positively had to stay in town for 2 ^{or 3} weeks.

Really I do not know what I will do if you have to keep going away all this year. It is a very lonely existence for both of us -

I am longing for a letter from you to say that you are coming a week from this Saturday

I cannot tell you how I long for you — Sometimes the old happiness of this place, seems to have gone so utterly — If I ever stop to think the tears just flood my eyes.

I went to the little English church all by my lonesome, on Sunday night. I enjoyed it so much, it was so simple and quiet — I felt sad & subdued afterwards, but quite happy —

I'm afraid I will be lonely with outaniel. till you come, but perhaps. Condie a some body will stay with me for a few.

days —aniel will be glad to get back now I think. it is quite close now. the event, and I think she finds life a little bit too public now. You never know at what moment people are going to run in —

I had some very nice letters from the family, which I will send by mail — I think that ~~the~~ Bernard & Ethel would be glad to see them. perhaps you would post them. When at

Sorrento

It gets very cold now in the evenings - and I sorely need my husband's back for a foot warmer!! -

I do not think of any thing else to say just now - but that I long for you every minute of the day, and most of the minutes of the night.

The Baby is sleeping pretty well, but wakes up very early, but I suppose I must expect this - but I have not been up at night at all for nearly a week.

I think I will go to bed now.

(and get up in the morning.) So good night —

with love.

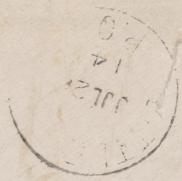

ever yours —

L. P. E.

Wednesday.

No letter from you today. So I fell in the depths of the Blues — I was at the duck house on a little while this morning watching the tennis.
A great many of the husbands are down now and there are a lot more coming this Saturday. But it will be very nice if you come on the 8th — I must send you a list of the things I want for Dorrie — that is to say your clothes. I seem to need you more every day. I cannot wait much longer for you darling — it is so nice to have you to do everything with — a great deal of love my my — yours. L. P. E.
