Christmas 1924

Dearest Lois

In addition to any little presents which I may be able to pick up for you this afternoon the enclosed envelope contains $50.00 which I want you to use entirely to get yourself some little personal luxuries which you would not ordinarily buy. Please do not add anything of your own to it to buy anything big like a fur coat or a dress. If you want either one or the other or if you want anything else big please order it in addition, using your own judgement, and send the bill to me. But this present gift is for small personal things like flowers or scent or gloves or purse or bath slippers or books or magazines which I am afraid you have had to economize on a little too carefully during the past year.

With best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Successful New Year

Yours affectionately
Edward
