Dear Mr. Harrington:

The McGill University Archives is the custodian of a considerable body of the papers of your kin. Some indication of the guides already available to these papers is contained in the attached materials. I do hope that one day soon you will find the time to visit the McGill University Archives to see just what steps we have taken toward their preservation, and in making these very important historical materials available to scholars.

Cordially yours,

John Andreassen
University Archivist
