My dear Lael,

I have been thinking of you so happily, for our first-seeing at Metis will give you so much pleasure, & I had been feeling lately how long it was since any one of family or friends had seen you - & that it - w^d be 3 weeks before Clare & the others reached Metis -

We have completed the scattering by coming here - only Alice left in charge of 295. This is a beautiful country, great mountains tier on tier, the highest near us is over 3000 ft. We walked up the hills behind us till we saw beyond the range ~~was~~ visible from the valley another delta great swelling outlines. Blue, blue blue, & the tender spring green against them & trees the reddish brown of play lanes & as the day was over of clouds & sun. Purple cloud shadows were coming & gaining in varied splen-dour. & all was so quiet so quiet. " & that his name is ever, his wondrous works declare."

The world is full of wonder & mystery, & beauty, but we can only guess at things, if God had not sent us the clear word of Jesus Christ. Keep on reading the gospels till those words are hid in your heart - Whenever I lie down - or am walking quietly, or sitting in the street cars, they come to me like old friends, but they seem new too -

I hope we may hear from Lois by the end of this week. Conrad was to finish the job he was at-cu a few days & he did² not know exactly what he w^d be at - or where next -

You must get into the woods soon now, & see the lovely things coming up, I wonder if you will find any of the cracked necks & williams their heads are bent-down

 like this
I found some long ago in the wood across the river's bridge - If you are
may flowers - I am wondering if Mr. Fleet will ask you up to his lake

They say there is lots of
a nice little river whose

We went to church this
A. M. a little pretty English church - but a dry, stupid kind of preacher full of church
master - but the hymns were good & we read alternately several psalms

I like to assemble with
ever they are called -

Now as "early to bed & early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy, & wise," I think Eva & I will try what the same custom
will do for women.

Good night dear son
good night -

Mother
