Dear Sir

I noticed yesterday the references to Archais and will endeavour now to run off the remainder of the edition.

In any event whether all are sold or not please do not let them stand in the way of a new edition suited to the times. The book was printed from type and so can be revised all things without any question of plates. As soon as the present inquiry is over I shall cancel all remaining copies to make way for a new edition. The copyright of this book though

Standing in our name is properly your own. It would be a pity not to bring it up to date and publish it again - if you do so all we would ask for would be the refusal of the publication at a specified price in the hope that both you and we might do better with the second than with the first edition.

Yours truly
Samuel Dawson
