Dear Sir

I duly received the 2 pages of proof and will see to the 2 or 3 corrections being made, and I will send the 25 copies as soon as ready, this, however, may be a few days hence.

The book from Washington has not yet come to hand. I will send it to you without delay when it reaches me.

I beg to thank you for your kind acknowledgment of my appeal with reference to my salary. I am expecting to see Mr Redpath on Monday or Tuesday. I learn that the steamer has arrived - I feel that I had no right to trouble you in the matter, but I may plead your uniform kindness to me as my excuse. I have at all times endeavored to do my duty to the best of my ability, and to feel that my services are not adequately cared for, reminds me of a horse's collar chafing his shoulders -

However, if one cannot command success, it is possible to feel that one deserves it.

Accept my apologies for troubling you

I am
Dear Sir
Yours respectfully
Henry Mott
