My Dear Dr Dawson

Accept of my best
thanks for your kind remembrance of me in your gift of "The Origin of the World."

The title is a most tempting one. I have been dipping in to it;
but must read it carefully. It reached here in my absence.

My summer plans have all been upset by a sprained knee. I only escaped from this in September. But fortu-nately, it has proved an unusually charming month.

I see you refer to the antiquity of the Victoria Cave
human bone as doubtful. Prob,
if I mistake not, the

London Congress of Archaeologists & Geologists
at the Institute challenged its being a human bone at
all. They were at least divided in opinion.

Give my kindest
Greetings to the ladies, in which Mr. Wilson joins. Faithfully yours
D. M. Wilson
