Dear Sir

I have delayed filling the order you left with me when here on account of there not being any native Cranberries to be had at any reasonable price, and it appears they will not this season. We are handling Cape Cod Cranberries altogether they sell at $3.00 per bushel here. Now I have no doubt but that you can procure the same article in your market it may be too, at a lower price, if such be the case you would not want them from here and I will hold the other goods until I hear from you in regard to them (the Cranberries)

Yours very truly
Logan
