

Princeton Review.

47 Park Ave. New York

Jan. 17. 78.

Prof. W. Lawson, LL.D. &c.

my dear Sir.

The January number of the Review, a copy of which I have done myself the honor to send you, has attained a circulation of over ten thousand copies, and will doubtless be read by double that number of the most intelligent minds of this country.

May I secure the article upon 'the origin of certain organic forms', for the March number?

If so, please let it reach me not later than the 10th proximo.

Very Respectfully

James M. Libbey
