J. W. Dawson Esq. L.L.D.

Dear Sir Would you kindly inform me if young men of sixteen or seventeen are admitted to study Law or Medicine?

Also can a young man study law in a lawyer's office and take his degree without attending College at all? Some of our correspondents are under the impression that they can.

My own impression is that they require the education of the College course, and cannot do without it, or obtain it without going to College.

Can you tell me if it is true that W. W. Lynch, Esq., our Attorney General, (is he not?) only went to College one year.

I am often asked can graduates of McEill practise Law or Medicine in other Principles. - Also if the standard for admission to Upper Amherst College is not higher than that of McGill, and is not the bill course longer.

Of course you cannot be troubled to answer these questions yourself, but perhaps you will show some of your students to give me the required information.

Hoping that you will pardon me for again disturbing & trouble you I remain, Yours truly,
H. C. Wood

Very respectfully
Yrs. G. L. Linn.
