Jan 10th 1882,

Dear Sir,

I cannot do much to assist - the meeting of the 11th Inst should like to know the result - My husband and son also hope that Entomology will be well represented at the meeting, and the latter John G Jack, instructs me to say that if he can be of service he would gladly help to make the visit. Of the scientists all that it should be My Boston friends wish that they expect great things of the Montreal meeting.

again. If any one interested in such research cares to investigate in spring, we shall be happy to give them a ~~book~~ & ~~cost~~ show them ~~the~~ way.

With kindest regards
Yours respectfully,
Annie L. Jack.

The Entomological Society is small, and weak, I trust the coming meetings will give it new life and strength. John works at his cabinet, and studies by himself during the winter evenings without any one to help or encourage him except our own family circle.

22
Through unforeseen circumstances he has not been able to go to the city, nor to the College this winter so far. During the holiday my husband took the boys out to the lake shore, where is the mound that interests him.

They followed what he calls a stone railroad for two or three miles. In some places it is quite lost track of by being plowed over but crops up
