and those who deal in adulterated goods have found that they can do so without fear of prosecution. It is to be hoped that an effort will be made to enforce the law which came into force on the 1st of July, 1884."

In view of all this, and of much more not herein given, certainly the most stringent measures should be enforced and transgressors promptly prosecuted.

exclaimed—"Well, my son, don't you find it hard work to walk in this deep snow?" "Oh! no," said the boy, "I'm coming; for, father, I step in all your tracks." True enough, the dear child was planting his tiny feet just where the parent's had trodden. The child's reply startled the father, as he reflected that thus would his child keep pace with him, and follow in his tracks through life.

MILES RANDALL.

THE FUTURE PREMIER OF CANADA.

WHERE now is the young man, or who is he, who, a quarter of a century hence, will be Premier of Canada? He must now be living, and consequently somewhere—doubtless in Canada. He may be an industrious, a hard-working student—probably of law; less probably of medicine. He may be on the farm, or in the printing office, or teaching. He may possibly yet be working at some trade as a mechanic. Is he now looking forward to the time when he shall occupy the first position in the Dominion? Is he preparing himself for this responsible office? If so, it is a worthy ambition; but it is a position for which much preparation is needed. If there is one living who has marked out for himself a path which he intends to follow for a quarter of a century, until he has reached the exalted position of Premier of this great country, it is to be hoped that his object is not simply that of self-exaltation, or a desire for power; but the more worthy and laudable one of endeavoring to promote the best interests of the Dominion. "MAN" would doubtless be exceedingly pleased to have a communication from thi

Dear Sir,

In reply to your favor of the 16th inst. I am sorry to trouble you further and will write to the Rev. J. McCarroll. But, though I did not see the port. of you in Witness or Star, I have never seen one in any such paper that w'd suit us. We want it nicely done, tall uniform. I can quite understand you not being much interested in the Biog. but my Dear Sir can you not take a deeper interest in what will be a most valuable, almost National Magazine?
So far those whose biographies we have given have supplied the cut for port. They can be obtained from a Photographer, in Toronto (Toronto Lithography Comp. Globe Buildings), very nicely executed for 10. We can hardly afford in our new enterprise to incur this part - monthly. Can you not help us thus far? We hope to give a pleasing useful sketch of home life - more at length than formerly if possible. Truly yours Sir William Dawson
E. Taylor (M.D.)
