COLLEGIATE AND POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE,

PRESIDENT'S ROOM.

Brooklyn, N.Y. Nov. 3. 1886.

My dear Dr. Dawson,

My friend, Mr. C. L. Woodbridge who will address you relative to lectures upon the Graham Foundation is the chairman of the Lecture Committee, and one of our most worthy and esteemed citizens. I hope you will see your way to accept his invitation. It seems an opportune moment to present the subject of this course from that standpoint from which you of all other men seem best fitted to view it.

With most pleasant recollections of our brief acquaintance I am

Very truly yours,

Ward A. Cochrane.
