Dear Sir William,

I have your letter today. There is no foundation for the numerous of charges in the Survey, although with the greatest respect for the Director, I wish he was well provided for elsewhere, as although a man of great ability, he is not successful in the management of his department, nor in popularising it. I have the greatest sympathy with him in the attacks open and covert which have been made upon him, devoted 5 years from when he has our disappointment. But the experience I had, during the months that Dr Selwyn was absent in England, and Dr Geary

was acting as Doctor, made me wish that it were to be indefinitely prolonged. I see no way clear, in the event of any change in the Directorship, for our

will get the powder, and I say this because I know how he stands in the estimation of all my colleagues.

I note what you say about the statements current about yourself.
I can very well imagine their origin. It is a terrible misfortune that we man should be able to do so much mischief.
If Dr George was Director
I want to break up the course in a hurry.

Yours very truly
H. White

A. G. Dawson.
