Dear Sir,

I am much obliged by your renewed invitation to write on the deluge,
and have not lost
sight of the matter, I have however a book on an allied subject, "Modern Science

in "Double Sands" Spring through the deep, and must finish this before I can do anything.
In the mean time
I am endeavoring to digest Howarth's bulky book, and other literature on the subject, and shall hope to be able to write

Something of value
before spring, when I shall be happy to offer it for your acceptance. The subject is one well deserving attention, but will require to be handled with true care, and
in such a way

Coff to Luluah

as to ever took the geological and historical ground. To do this and produce something sufficiently good to attract attention is no easy task; but I shall try, and shall hope to offer something for your acceptance before April at farthest

Truly yours

W. D. Coe
