WASHINGTON, D. C. February 24, 1890.

Sir J. William Dawson,
McGill College,
Montreal, Canada.

My dear Sir:

I returned last evening from New York, where I had been for several days. I find on my desk this morning a package containing copies of the supplement of the Acadian Geology of 1878, also the volume for 1855, first edition, and supplement for 1860 bound with it. I already have the supplement of 1878, and there is a copy in the Survey library. I will return the two which you sent or, if you desire it, will send one to the Smithsonian Institution library and the other to the Johns Hopkins University library, at Baltimore, Md. Do you wish me to retain the edition of 1855, with supplement, or return it to you? If you can spare it, I should like very much to have it in my library.

I will read your contribution to Harrington's Life of Sir Wm. E. Logan in connection with a review of the Cambrian and Silurian rocks.

Thanking you for your kindness in sending on the books, I remain,

Very truly yours,
Charles Walcott
