My dear Sir William,
It was a great pleasure to learn from yourself that you had fully recovered from your severe illness, and I welcome with so many others your return to work: you will greatly oblige me by forwarding your paper to my brothers, the address being always safe: if I might ask a favour,

it would be, in case you have not printed the references to Neanthropic origin of the branches, to add them to my copy.
I am such a wanderer
that it is difficult for me to be an expert -

I am myself very busily pursuing researches on an archeological question which promises to be of interest.

My son seems to brighten gradually; geology seems to be subject which occupies most of his leisure.

This session is to be his last and we must meet again to consider his future.

With many thanks
for thinking of me,
Yrs sincerely,
J. Lambert

I purpose wintering in Egypt, as I require some closer acquaintance with certain forms to carry forward my studies -
