My Dear Sir William

I am sorry to say that Harry is not improving as I should like to see him do, and we have been thinking that it might perhaps be better, that he should go South for the fall and winter, to a warmer climate instead of North to a cold one, and I would be much obliged for any information which you may be able to give me regarding that part of the South where you were; say routes of travel to get there, description of climate and town or village, quality and cut of board &c in fact any information which may suggest itself to you and collect from your own experience if you think it to be necessary for a stranger

or one going there for the first time Should it be decided to send him I wish his mother or sister will go with him. How is your grandm?
I hope to hear that his health is improved

With kind regards to you and Lady Darnley, and trusting that you are both keeping well I am.

Yours faithfully
