

St. Peter's School, Y O R K .

Nov. 23rd: 1894.

Mr. G. H. Head was appointed to a mastership here in 1893 on the strong recommendation of his Head-master, which I consider he has fully satisfied. He has had charge of the Latin and English work of the Modern Fifth Form, part of the work of the First Form, and the History of the Sixth, and in all these departments he has proved himself an able teacher. He maintains excellent order, and spares no pains in preparing work for his classes and in making himself acquainted with the various circumstances and requirements of his pupils.

He has also in addition to the ordinary work of a school-master, shown unusual capacity for the delivery of Lectures.

He has been indefatigable in managing the School Boat Club, and in general both in school & athletic pursuits has been most energetic. He has a good address, and I need scarcely say his personal reputation is unblemished. With these qualifications he is perhaps unusually well-fitted to make effective practical use of his excellent knowledge of Classical & Modern Literature, and to impress himself upon a large body of students.

G. T. Handford, M. A.

)Late Scholar of Christ's College, Cambridge. Formerly Assistant master at Dulwich College, & Uppingham School examiner for Durham University, B. A. Degree, 1888 & 1889)
