8th July 1895.

Dear Sir William Dawson,

I have to thank you for the volume of 'Educational Papers' received here the other day. You could not have made me a more useful or a more welcome present: I can see at a glance that when I have read the volume I shall be much better up in the history of Mr Gile than would have otherwise been possible.

In return, I send you a copy of a little book I have just had published.

Our session here is practically at an end, though I have still a Council meeting on Wednesday 10th. After that I go to London for a little, and there I hope to see Sir Donald Smith. Owing to various hindrances I have not yet been able to decide definitely on our date of sailing, but it will probably be 22nd

August.

Hoping to find you is good health on my arrival in your town, and again thanking you for your book, I am

Dear Sir Wm. Dawson,

Yours very truly,

W. Peterson.
