

293. University St.
Montreal.

July 4/96

My dear Sir,

I have now completed a first copy of an article for your new Bible Dictionary on "Man-
-his Origin and antiquity", keeping as near as I can to the indications in your letter of last July.

It amounts ^{to} about 2400 words, more or less. If that meets your wishes as to quantity, I shall proceed to copy it out. Of course the subjects admit of much greater extension, but viewed in connection merely with the statements in Genesis, and as an article for a book of reference, I presume what I have written will be long enough.

If you think otherwise, and do not wish to wait till the return of Waite, My cable address is 1911

"Lindlawson Manual," by Charles American Company, and by a single vol, at fifteen, twenty, thirty, &c, I shall run your wishes and act accordingly. In the meantime I remain, failing any such intimation, I shall go on with the work, and mail to you the M. S. when ready.

In looking over Prof Lindlaw's short treatment of the subject in the introduction to his "Bible Doctrine of Man" I believe that my views of the subject will be fairly sustainable to his treatment of the Psychology

Yours truly,
C. C. [unclear]

To Harlow
January 1917

and anthropologists.

With all kind regards and good wishes for the New Year, believe me,
Yours sincerely,

J. M. Dawson

MCGILL UNIVERSITY ARCHIVES
ACC. NO.	1463
REF.	737