Sir Wm Dawson K C M J

Honoured Sir

I received this morning the copy of Mr McGill's portrait for which I thank you kindly I also received the portrait of yourself last week I am having three different cuts made from your photographs, proofs of which I will send you when ready

I have seen Mr W B Lambie 63 St Gabriel St who has a drawing of the old house but he asked me to get a letter from you and he would let me have the use of it I will see Mr Mc Cord in the meantime with whom I am well acquainted

Yours Truly
Wm Keys

History of McGill University.

PROSPECTUS.

By an ungrudging expenditure of time and labour, the editors of this work have undertaken to provide a series of volumes of historical and biographical records, of absorbing interest to the student of human affairs.

For the first time, the public will be placed in the possession of an accurate and comprehensive history of the chief seat of learning in the Dominion.

Every detail in connection with the inception and development of McGill College and University ; its benefactors, its aims, the scope of its faculties, its exceptional advantages, and its far-reaching influence, will be set forth in a masterly style by many of Canada's most gifted writers.

As a genealogical work it may be regarded as amongst the most valuable of Canadian productions, for to its pages we may refer for authentic information regarding graduates, both past and present, and may trace the history of those who have obtained eminence in the varied learned professions, of those who, by the exercise of the talents fostered within the College walls, have helped to build up this "Canada of ours." The enterprise is a laudable one, and its usefulness is not confined to the limits of the Dominion ; but in this structure which many hands will raise to perfect McGill's roll of fame, the editors are assured of the generous support of the sons of "Alma Mater."

The greatest care will be exercised to render the work worthy of the subject, from a literary point of view, and the volumes will be adorned with a choice selection of engravings, and with an excellent collection of portraits of McGill's past and present worthies.
