you have been ill. I hope

Dear Sir William,

I thank you for the three papers which you have kindly sent me, and which I received here this morning.
I am afraid that I cannot do anything personally to help in urging the Canadian Government in respect to Tidal Surveys, beyond my action as a member of the British Association Committee, in expressing our opinion regarding the importance of the object. I can quite see also the importance of the other objects to which you refer, and I do not feel that I have sufficient knowledge to allow me to judge as to their relative values. I should gladly have helped according to your wish, if I had felt at all able to do so.

Yours very truly, Kelvin
