Dear Sir William

It is very kind and good of you to have taken the trouble of writing me. You thank me as much as tho' I had been of great service to you - I can only say that any little attention I had you was a pleasure in so far as any I did personally was concerned, mixed however with regret that one whom we all esteem so highly should have required professional aid.

With regard to your recovery of the use of your arm and leg, the part of the brain involved in no way interferes with your intellectual functions

We all feel thankful for that in your case, seeing it is quite ^{consistent} even yet with a long and useful life.

Very many thanks for promise of a brochure which I will receive highly.

With kindest regards to Lady Dawson

I remain

Sincerely Yours

Ed. Dickinson
