

Monday after-

My dear D. Dawson,

The enclosed note-

seems to show an honest and straight forward course on the part of the writer.

I shall be very glad to furnish Prof. Andrews with all the details of the Reading Exam, un-

I have been thinking that it might be well to let her have the same to a head before planning a couple of frames, but your judgment in this is more valuable than mine.

I understand you will to bring my name with the envelope sent in regard to facts? Then lest you think he might make an amazing and unfair use of them. They corroborate the statements I somewhat ungenerously made. However, we also write in the spirit which the correspondents in the Herald's display, will work anything to serve their immediate End.

personalities of
"The Herald" are too abusive and spiteful to be treated in any other way than with silence. Amazing, of course they are, but they ought not to provoke any thing on my part either undignified or ungentlemanly. I am as ever Yours faithfully,
